The course offers 27 holes and was designed by architect Tom Macaulay. It was built on the old estate belonging to Emo Capodilista, part of the "Leading Golf Courses in Europe" and is frequented by a large international clientele. It has challenging technical characteristics, the course has twice hosted the Alps Tour and three times the Challenge Tour. The facility is equipped with a large driving range with 20 covered stalls with lighting, a pro shop, swimming pool, solarium, sauna, two restaurants (one Michelin star) and a snack bar. The large clubhouse, with numerous lounges for the organization of conferences, corporate events and banquets, was converted from an old tobacco-drying mill, which one sees all over the course. ENJOY AND PLAY IN A NINETEENTH CENTURY PARK

The 18-hole Frassanelle Golf Club was created in 1990 by The Venetian architect Marco Croze. An integral part of a wonderful nineteenth century park of 200 acres belonging to the noble Papafava family, it is located within the protected area of the National Park of the Euganean Hills. Rich in natural flora and fauna, it is characterized by large open spaces interspersed with forests and water areas that help to beautify the landscape and make the course more challenging.

Its interesting technical features are enticing, and it hosted the 1992 the English Ladies Open. The 15th hole is particularly notable, a par 3 of 150 meters, it crosses a large lake approaching a green surrounded by majestic trees.

The club house is hosted in a beautiful country-house of the seventeenth century, finely restored and furnished according the Anglo-Saxon golf's style. It is inserted within a wonderful park designed in the mid-800 from the famous Venetian architect Giuseppe Jappelli in order to bring the charm of the English countryside into the Veneto region.
